

Locally Elected Auditors Training

Each year, as municipal budgets grow and sources of revenue become more diverse, the task of auditing municipal financial records becomes more difficult. Current Vermont law doesn't require locally elected auditors to have any education or experience in bookkeeping or accounting. This training will provide an overview of legal requirements of the annual elected auditors' report as well as information to help elected auditors fulfill their responsibilities under Vermont law.

The recently revised, Handbook for Locally Elected Auditors (link below), is available exclusively in this bundle for a limited time.

While this training is designed for elected town auditors, the information may also be of interest to selectboard members, municipal managers and administrators, treasurers and other finance positions, and clerks.
