

May 19: Bumpy Road Ahead for CHIP Housing Bill; Clear Path for Budget, Legal Trails, and Heavy-Duty
Truck Transition

Things are heating up under the golden dome as adjournment looms large. Last week, the “Big Bill” for state appropriations was passed and the year’s premier housing proposal hit a roadblock. In this Weekly Legislative Report, we update you on the budget, a rollback on the electrification of heavy-duty trucks, legal trails, and more – and make an urgent call to action to support CHIP.

$9.1 Billion State Budget Bill Awaits Governor’s Signature

The FY26 Appropriations bill, H.493, was passed and delivered to the governor for his signature on May 15. Governor Scott is expected to sign H.493, but always has five days excluding Sundays to sign, veto, or let passed bills become law without his signature.

Usually, the budget bill is controversial and one of the last bills to pass each session, but this year the House, Senate, and Scott administration reached compromise on the budget with time to spare.

The FY26 budget fulfills all statutorily required reserve requirements, meets all pension obligations, stabilizes several special funds, and makes essential investments in public safety, human services, housing, and other major areas. In addition, all fiscal year 2025 budget adjustments were incorporated into H.493.

The FY26 budget is nearly $360 million more than the $8.7 billion FY25 budget and consists of $2.5 billion of general funds, $3.2 billion in federal funds, $2.4 billion in education funds, $360 million in transportation funds, and $691 million in other funds. Notably, the FY26 budget transfers $77.2 million from the General Fund to the Education Fund to buy down property tax rates and sets aside $4.0 million to support education transformation. Some highlights from the FY26 budget are listed below.

CHIP: House General Draft Good, Ways and Means Draft Bad, Debate Could Get Ugly

Momentum behind the illustrious CHIP proposal slowed dramatically last week following passage of the House Committee on Ways and Means amendment to S.127 that substantially diminishes the ability of many municipalities and housing developers to use this game-changing program. VLCT summarized the work done by the House General and Housing Committee in our May 5 report and the later changes proposed by House Ways and Means in our May 12 report.

Representative Charlie Kimball spent last week reporting out on the changes proposed by the money committee, first to the Rural Caucus on Wednesday, then to a joint hearing of two House policy committees Commerce and General and Housing, and finally on Friday to a rare pre-vote convening of the full body at a “caucus of the whole”. After much discussion, there is not much to say other than that the vibes are not vibing. The House does not appear to have the votes to support the Ways and Means Committee amendment.

For his part, Governor Scott released a rebuke of that amendment on Wednesday, followed by a more urgent message of encouragement on Friday, saying, “Last session, the Legislature passed 70 bills in three days, so I’m confident there is still time to pass a housing bill that actually helps Vermont, because without action, we will fall further behind.”

The bill was expected to take a one-day drive-by through the House Appropriations committee and head to the floor for second reading early this week. However, with general discontent among lawmakers, advocates, and the governor, it is now expected that the Appropriations Committee will retain the bill and soon offer a third compromise amendment to bridge the gap between the policy and money committees' desired changes to the program.

VLCT opposes the House Ways and Means amendment, which would restrict its use in rural communities and for low-resource towns, exacerbate geographic inequity, or complicate the municipal processes required to apply for and receive approval for a CHIP financed development. We object to:

- Requiring municipalities to enforce year-round occupancy for the life of the debt service or in perpetuity
- A regional or statewide annual cap on usable increment
- A "Big" TIF sunset
- A "but for" test

VLCT supports the House General and Housing amendment with some improvements:

- Eliminate location eligibility criteria. CHIP is a financing tool for building public infrastructure, not a land use regulation. Following months of rapacious debate and testimony, there is no consensus on how best to define location-based eligibility for CHIP that is inclusive of small towns and does not distort prior policy work to encourage smart growth development accomplished by the legislature in Act 47 and Act 181. We advocate allowing local and state land use law to dictate where we build.

- Support a minimum amount of floor area for housing at or below 51%.

Many advocates and affordable housing providers have testified in favor of minimum housing ratios above 50% for mixed-use developments. However, in many rural communities that have zoning, local bylaws limit building height and require first floor commercial space within designated downtowns and villages. A ratio closer to 50/50 would be more feasible within rural downtowns.

- Use inclusive infrastructure definition. For all municipalities to use CHIP, it is important to allow tax increment financing for infrastructure that includes alternative water and wastewater systems such as a community well or septic that may be privately owned. Allowing CHIP to be used for more incidental, but equally necessary, improvements such as the extension of fiber and electric utilities will improve the feasibility of housing projects in rural areas and lower the cost of housing for the end users – new renters and homeowners.

The good news is that amid the momentary chaos there is a clear indication of broad, tri-partisan support behind the underlying CHIP proposal. The bad news is that we are running out of time to see the final passage of this transformational housing bill.

Before things get ugly, take action and make it clear to your local representatives that S.127 and the Community Housing and Infrastructure Program is a must pass bill for 2025.

Take Action to Support CHIP NOW!

We need your help in the ensuing end-stage debate over how to right-size CHIP for all Vermont communities. For CHIP to work for our big cities and our small rural towns, it must be flexible, support all housing types, and be available in a range of residential development areas. VCLT believes that CHIP is the best proposal to spur new housing development because:

- CHIP does not use any state appropriation.
- CHIP does not require an increase in municipal tax rates or municipal water rates to pay for bonds or debts.
- CHIP grows non-property tax state and local revenues by building mixed-use projects, including those that grow the Education Fund like Meals and Rooms Tax and Sales and Use Tax.
- CHIP increases state and local tax capacity long-term by growing the grand list.
- CHIP grows the Education Fund in the short-term with a portion of new tax revenues (currently proposes a range of 20-40% of new taxes into state coffers).

This week, final amendments to CHIP and passage are expected in the House – followed by a likely (lengthy) conference committee to reconcile the House and Senate housing omnibus packages.

Take Action Now by Contacting Your Local Representatives.

Call, text, email, or meet with your local representatives this week and let them know why you oppose the House Ways and Means Amendment and how CHIP can be improved to help your community improve public infrastructure, build housing, and grow the grand list using the talking points above.

What lawmakers need from you:

- Tell them about potential projects in your area that can become CHIP built housing.
- Help them understand what your community needs for public investment, technical support, and usability of the program.
- Share what you are hearing from voters and constituents who want more housing, bigger grand lists, and lower taxes.

- Remind them that more housing means more students, more revenues, and more opportunities.
- Show them your municipal plans, feasibility studies, public comments, and community visions that call for housing of all types and at the densities appropriate for your town or city.

Let lawmakers know that we're in this together! State and local government must work together to tackle Vermont's housing shortage.

Legal Trails Roller Coaster Ending on a High

Since February, VLCT along with allied trails groups, outdoor recreation businesses and enthusiasts, and conservation organizations have been fighting for the future of over 500 miles of municipal trails across the state.

Early in the session, Windsor County Senator Alison Clarkson had sponsored bill S.4, an act related to maintenance and use of legal trails. Also sponsoring the bill were Senators Becca White, Martine Gulick, Ruth Hardy, Andrew Perchlik, Anne Watson, and David Weeks. S.4 as it was proposed would prevent future challenges by property owners to the use and maintenance of town trails – like the headline-grabbing suit still unfolding in Tunbridge.

When S.4 failed to make the crossover deadline, VLCT provided testimony to the Senate Transportation Committee in April. Senators also heard from the bill's primary opponent – the plaintiff in the Tunbridge case. At the final hour, the Senate Transportation Committee acted to include the legal trails protection in the annual transportation bill for state transportation programs and appropriations.

Things took a turn again in early May, when House members on the conference committee chose to pull the statutory language regarding legal trails before sending the transportation bill to Governor Scott for his signature.

Hope was not lost, because the House Transportation Committee had retained custody of the Senate's bill S.123, an act relating to miscellaneous changes to laws related to motor vehicles. VLCT and other advocates (and the bill's one opponent) resumed testimony in the House Committee throughout last week.

VLCT Staff Attorney Kail Romanoff presented our MAC attorney's position that risks to municipalities and to the future of public access to legal trails would be greater if the legislature chooses not to act. Kail said that without clarification for the municipal authority to maintain trails for their regulated uses, a trail was nothing but "lines on a map".

Finally, lawmakers were compelled to act, and on Friday morning the House Transportation Committee chose to amend the Senate's language into S.123, added explicit intent language that it was their choice to clarify this already existing authority, and passed the bill 11-0.

VLCT appreciates the support and coordination of many other advocates, including the Vermont Trails and Greenways Council, the leadership of Transportation Committee Chairs Senator Richie Westman and Representative Matt Walker, and the originating S.4 champions, Senators Allison Clarkson and Becca White, for their leadership on this critical issue.

S.4 for legal trails is what lobbyists affectionately call a “zombie bill” because it died and found new life many times throughout this session, revived each time by motivated advocates. We are pleased that this critical statutory language survives in bill S.123, and we will keep working to ensure that Vermont’s proud history of public access to the great outdoors lives on in perpetuity through our hundreds of miles of municipal trails.

Vermont Mayors Want More from H.91 Emergency Shelter Redesign

The legislature is proposing sweeping changes to the state’s emergency shelter system and General Assistance Program in bill H.91, an act relating to the Vermont Homeless Emergency Assistance and Responsive Transition to Housing Program.

The proposal began in the House Human Services Committee and is nearing passage in the Senate.

The Vermont Mayors Coalition has unanimously responded in a recent letter to lawmakers calling for the Legislature to allocate direct funding assistance to municipalities and strongly advocating for municipal representation on the Regional Advisory Councils which will be tasked with the design and oversight of the new scheme, to be administered regionally by CAP agencies. They also advocated for legislative intent to decrease the threshold for activation of extreme cold weather shelter from -20 degrees to -10 degrees Fahrenheit and emphasized the need for state support for new permanent housing development.

The mayors highlighted the ongoing negative effects of the General Assistance Motel Program on municipal budgets – including fire, police and emergency medical services, libraries, community services, and all frontline staff. Local communities are spending significant amounts of local dollars to address strain on staff capacity, create shelters, pay for hazardous waste cleanups, and more.

Pause in Heavy-Duty Truck Requirements Welcome Relief to Cities and Towns

On Wednesday, Governor Scott issued an executive order that effectively delayed regulations that were reducing the availability of snowplows, dump trucks, and other heavy-duty vehicles that municipalities rely on.

Vermont cities and towns plan for years for the purchase of a new truck or specialized heavy-duty equipment, which often cost in the six figures. They then often wait for more than a year for a truck to be delivered, and VLCT members report a lack of inventory and unexpected cost increases due to new emissions requirements.

VLCT Executive Director Ted Brady issued a statement in support of the Executive Order, saying:

"Governor Scott's decision to delay implementation of rules that were increasing the cost and reducing the inventory of the mainstay of municipal road work, the dump truck, is a relief to municipal budgets and Vermonters."

The current regulations, the Advanced Clean Cars II, Advanced Clean Trucks, and Heavy-Duty Engine and Vehicle Omnibus rules, which require manufacturers to sell an increasing number of zero-emission vehicles, are effectively suspended until December 2026. This gives lawmakers another year to reconsider a more feasible transition schedule or for the market to catch up before state enforcement of the rules begins. You can read more about the change in this recent Seven Days article.

The End is Near

If the rumors are true, the legislature is a mere 10 days away from adjournment. Critical legislative proposals are on the line for housing, flood recovery, and education reform, as well as necessary updates VLCT has called for related to municipal finance authorities, Open Meeting Law, and elections law.

With broken supermajorities, a veto session is scheduled for mid-June but is unlikely to function as a re-do opportunity for lawmakers' top priorities as recent veto sessions have. That means a marathon week ahead to find final compromise and pass veto-proof bills that answer voters' calls to action to build housing and lower property taxes.

Stay up to date on the status of VLCT's priorities by reading our weekly legislative reports, action alerts, and testimonies. We will schedule a series of advocacy chats to wrap up the session once the timing becomes clearer.

As always, please take action by contacting your local representatives and sharing how VLCT's priority bills will help your community.
