Reimagining Rural Capacity Summit

Mark your calendar for November 13, 2025, at Vermont State University in Randolph for a hands-on day of research, ideas, and action to strengthen small town planning and development.

Join an inspiring and interactive day with Vermont community and economic development leaders, planners, resource providers, local officials, organizers, legislators, and funders. Help shape the future of statewide technical assistance.

- Hear findings from the Vermont Evaluation of Rural Technical Assistance (VERTA) and community support solutions from other states
- Co-design strategies and supports to help Vermont's towns and rural communities get real projects done
- Help prioritize ideas for pilot programs, agency actions, and 2026 legislative actions and funding requests
