

How much land does it take to create a "Housing Development"?

There is no set amount of land required to create a "housing development". A housing development can be as small as two units, such as a duplex.

