Transitional Return To Work Toolkit

Providing modified, temporary work for employees who are injured on the job is one of the most effective ways of controlling workers' compensation claim costs, especially when it can help avoid lost wages. The PACIF Loss Control Services team has developed a Transitional Return to Work (TRTW) program template for members to customize and use. Additional resources here include an explanatory brochure, detailed guidance, and a template for a form to use when specifying individual TRTW agreements.

Contact your Loss Control Consultant [1] for further information or assistance with developing your municipality's TRTW program.
