SUSTAINING AGRICULTURE GUIDE LAUNCHES ON FARM2PLATE’S WEBSITE

The Farm to Plate Agricultural Land Use Planning Task Force has released an updated agriculture land use planning guide for planners. Divided into modules covering food system planning, farmland conservation, farmland and property taxes, local land use regulation, and state regulation, the guide can be downloaded at http://bit.ly/VTAgLandGuide.

“As Vermont’s local food movement quickened the pace of [agricultural entrepreneurial] development, it became clear there was a need for an update to the town’s operating budget, oversee personnel, financial, public works, public safety, and community relations matters, and often have to juggle home life activities in order to attend evening meetings, the manager is expected, without fail, to be engaging, collaborative, dynamic, and a respectable leader, phew! But Vermont’s town managers typically do all that, and more. Case in point: Patrick Scheidel. When he’s not waving his magic managerial wand over both Essex Town and Essex Junction Village, he somehow finds time to be a volunteer driver for Neighbor Rides, a transportation provider to seniors and persons with disabilities in Chittenden County. (Since the program began in March 2013, Neighbor Rides has chalked up more than 5,000 trips.) So, to all of Vermont’s municipal managers, we offer a hatful of hearty thanks!

Do you know of a Vermont municipal official whose work merits some extra recognition? (This is not a Trivia question.) Let us know, and we’ll try to acknowledge that person in an upcoming newsletter issue.

TOWN REQUIREMENTS IF NO BIDS RECEIVED AT TAX SALE; DIFFERENCE BETWEEN PAPER AND AUSTRALIAN BALLOTS

Is a town required to bid on a property at tax sale if no other bids are received?

No, a town is not required to bid on a property at tax sale even if no other bid is received. A town may choose to bid on such a property, but only under certain circumstances. Pursuant to 32 V.S.A. § 5259, a municipality may purchase a property at tax sale if no other minimum bid is received. State law mandates minimum bids cover the full reimbursement amount of the delinquent taxes, interest, fees, and costs on a property. 32 V.S.A. § 5254. Therefore, if there are any other acceptable bids on a property, a town is prohibited from bidding. Furthermore, if a town submits a bid and a subsequent acceptable bid is received, the town must withdraw its bid.

In the case of Bogie v. Town of Bartlett, 129 Vt. 46, (1970), the Vermont Supreme Court held that a town’s authority to bid at a tax sale constitutes an ultimate recourse given to protect the town against any conspired attempts to avoid the sale by discouraging all bidding. However a town is not entitled to hold the property, or retain the proceeds of a resale, to an extent greater than the amount of the delinquent taxes, interest, fees, and costs. The Court in Bogie held “A policy which encouraged municipal government to promote situations where it was authorized to acquire the property of its own taxpayers at unconscionable discounts, to the enrichment of the town treasury or enlargement of its land holdings, is fraught with danger and we find not contemplated by the legislative enactment.” The objective in allowing towns to bid at tax sale is to recover taxes and costs incurred in the process of collection, not to operate a real estate business for profit.

Some towns have policies in place authorizing the town to bid at all tax sales when there are no other bidders. This practice is inadvisable, however, because not only could it violate law if exercised improperly, but also in some cases it may result in the town owning a property that creates potential liability for the town. Instead, a selectboard should evaluate whether or not the town should bid at tax sale on a case-by-case basis, and be aware of the limits of the law if it does so.

What is the difference between a “paper ballot” and an “Australian ballot”?

Australian ballots are uniformly pre-printed ballots for secret vote elections and include any voting machine approved for elections conducted in this state. Articles to be voted on must have been pre-warned and the polls must be open for an extended period during or after a municipal meeting, or both. 17 V.S.A. § 2103(4). In contrast, a paper ballot is just a piece of paper on which the voter may write “yes” or “no” or the name of a candidate who is running for office.

The Australian ballot process for voting applies only if specifically required by statute or charter, or if the law enables the voters to use it for certain items of town business. A municipality may vote to use Australian ballot voting for budget votes, officer elections, and public questions. 17 V.S.A. § 2680. A municipality may also vote to adopt or amend a municipal plan by Australian ballot. 24 V.S.A. § 4385(c). In a “rural town,” the legislative body or the voters may require that zoning bylaws be adopted by Australian ballot. 24 V.S.A. § 4442(c)(2). A rural town is a town having a population of fewer than 2,500 persons or a town having between 2,500 and 5,000 that has chosen to be considered a rural town. 24 V.S.A. § 4303(25).

ASK THE LEAGUE

In contrast, municipalities are required by law to use Australian ballot in the following instances:

- governance charter amendments. 17 V.S.A. § 2645(a)(7);
- municipal mergers. 24 V.S.A. §1485(c);
- entrance into a union municipal district such as a solid waste district. 24 V.S.A. § 4863.
- bond votes. 24 V.S.A. § 1758;
- borrowing for public improvements or the acquisition of capital assets when the term is more than five years. 24 V.S.A. § 1786a(c);
- the decision to appoint rather than elect a constable. 17 V.S.A. § 2651a(a); and
- the question of whether or not to have a town manager if the town elects its officers by Australian ballot. 24 V.S.A. § 1243.

There are other statutes that refer to paper ballots rather than Australian ballots. For instance, 17 V.S.A. § 2646 states that selectboard members, listers, and auditors are elected “by ballot.” This means that unless the town has voted to elect by Australian ballot, the town must use paper ballots to elect those officers. Paper ballots are also required for the vote to eliminate the office of elected auditor under 17 V.S.A. § 2651b and the vote to eliminate the office of elected lister under 17 V.S.A. § 2651c. Lastly, Robert’s Rules of Order allows for the voters at town and school district meetings to request the use of a paper ballot in certain instances. Robert’s requires a majority of the voters to request a paper ballot, but, under authority of 17 V.S.A. § 2658 and 16 V.S.A. § 551, the paper ballot may be demanded by just seven voters.

The goal of Community Resilience Organizations (CROs), a new statewide pilot program launched last November, is to inform communities, organizations, agencies, and people who are working to make their towns better prepared for whatever changes lie ahead.

There’s no way to prevent disasters like Tropical Storm Irene. But CROs can make sure that Vermont towns are ready for whatever comes next. Local CROs will engage a diverse cross-section of leaders and citizens from sectors including emergency management leaders, town road crews and local governments, social services, conservation and watershed groups, and vulnerable populations.

Teams will address hazard mitigation, climate adaptation, and resilience. The community will come together for work, celebration and learning on an annual Day of CROing, when residents work side by side to complete fun and essential local resilience projects. CROs will also host an annual summit and training to build connections and share ideas among towns. Pilot communities for 2015 are Hartford, Londonderry, Jeffersonville, Putney, and Waterbury.

VLCT’s attorneys can provide your municipality with legal assistance at highly competitive rates. Please call Abby Friedman for more information at 1-800-649-7915.

Sample Projects:
- Water & Sewer Ordinances
- Zoning Bylaws
- Municipal Charter Amendments
- Highway Ordinances

PACIF Workers’ Comp Audits

If you are our contact person at a PACIF member municipality, we sent you an email in January about the 2014 Workers’ Compensation Payroll Audit process. This audit will identify any differences between your estimated and actual payroll for the 2014 calendar year so we can reconcile your regular Workers’ Compensation contribution as appropriate. That email contains a specific list of payroll reports and information that we ask that you compile for the audit. After you receive the email, a VLCT staff member – Larry Smith, Pam Fecteau, Vicky Abare, or Susan Benoit – will contact you to arrange a visit to review these records.

Please plan to have all the records ready when that staff member visits so any issues can be discussed right away and perhaps resolved on the spot. PACIF has more than 300 members, and we hope each of you will make an effort to help us complete your audit in a timely manner. Even though we start this process in January, the combined full-time efforts of the Underwriting and Member Relations teams will be required in order to complete them all by May.

Norwich Fire Recovered with Agility

Around 3:00 a.m. on August 7, 2013, Norwich Fire District #1 received a report of a fire at the district’s pump house. When firefighters arrived they put the fire out quickly, but significant damage had already been done: the pump house roof was wide open, and the pump equipment and power supply were crippled. The Fire District’s Operations Manager, Sam Eaton, quickly called VLCT PACIF and reported the loss to Kelly Kindestin.

As part of PACIF’s response, Kelly Kindestin called Agility Recovery, a company that specializes in the business continuity aspects of disaster recovery and which PACIF had started working with earlier in the year. Kelly explained that Norwich would need assistance in getting their water pump back online to help ensure that 310 homes and 20 businesses wouldn’t lose their potable water supply.

Agility sprang into action, working with PACIF and the Norwich Fire District to determine the size and type of generator needed to power the pump house. Within hours, Agility located a generator to meet the municipality’s needs and relayed the delivery time and cost estimates to the district and to PACIF. Once approved, Agility arranged to have the generator delivered along with all the cabling required to make the necessary connections. Thanks also to the local electricians who gave the project top priority, the generator was in place within 24 hours. It remained right there for a few weeks, powering the pumps and ensuring an uninterrupted water supply to town residents.

“Getting anything done in situations like this is difficult with all of the calls one has to make, and then missed calls to return. It just snowballs,” said Bryon McMullan, District Administrator for the Fire District when the fire occurred, “and it is nice to have some of that handled for you.”

“Without Agility providing the temporary generator, our reservoir might have gone empty and our community could have lost its potable water supply,” Sam Eaton later said. “We have another backup plan we could have implemented, but this solved the problem more quickly and saved a lot of other work.” In fact, the Norwich community didn’t feel any effect from the fire at the pump house.

PACIF members should always report a loss to VLCT immediately. That way, PACIF’s in-house Claims team can quickly access appropriate resources, such as Agility Recovery, to help handle the situation efficiently. To learn more about Agility Recovery’s solutions you can visit www.agilityrecovery.com, but keep in mind that if you have an emergency, PACIF will work with Agility on your behalf.

PACIF COVERAGE DOCUMENTS HAVE BEEN SENT

By the end of January, PACIF members should have received in the mail a large envelope containing their 2015 PACIF Coverage Documents. Inside were three or four documents: one for Property and Casualty, the second for Workers’ Compensation, the third for Supplemental Accidental Death and Dismemberment coverage for regular volunteers (not volunteer firefighters), and, only for members that have a fire department insured by PACIF, a fourth document defining mandatory Assigned Risk coverage for firefighters’ Workers’ Compensation.

If your municipality has not yet received this mailing, or if you have any questions after you have reviewed all of the documents, please contact a member of our Underwriting team immediately at 800-649-7915.

TAILGATE DANGERS

Every winter, a distressing number of Vermont’s municipal Public Works employees sustain serious hand injuries while working with or near dump truck tailgates. These tailgates typically weigh up to 800 pounds. For road crew members who are trying, for instance, to dislodge a blockage that keeps the truck from dispersing material on the roadway, there are several potential “pinch points” where their fingers and hands can be caught and damaged or even severed.

PACIF’s Loss Control team is on a mission to educate work crews, managers, and governing board members about this distinct, but very preventable, risk. Some readers will receive an email enlisting their aid in reducing the incidence of hand crush injuries. Highway and Public Works departments will start receiving visits from Loss Control consultants armed with warning labels to put on municipal dump trucks that we hope will remind employees to look out for their own safety.

original guide that expanded on the topics covered in the original 1994 print guide,” says Peg Elmer Hough, chair of the Farm to Plate Agriculture Land Use Planning Task Force. “The new modules demonstrate how the entire food system can be incorporated into town planning by addressing issues in agriculture that have to date not been extensively covered, like commercial composting and food system planning, while giving detailed guidance on historically important issues like farmland conservation, farmland and taxes, and land use regulations.”

“Development pressure continues to put farmland in danger of being converted to non-agricultural uses and planners need to be equipped with the tools and knowledge to effect land-use patterns that strengthen and conserve Vermont’s agricultural resources,” says Jake Claro, Farm to Plate project manager. “Additionally, as farms diversify their operation, particularly events-based businesses like weddings or burger nights, local zoning regulations need to keep pace with these changes in a way that doesn’t stifle innovation, but adequately deals with public concerns.”

Sustaining Agriculture will not be released in print. If you cannot access the guide on the web, please contact Jake Claro at the Farm2Plate program at jake@vsjf.org or 802-828-5669.

he’ll be exposed to VLCT and the municipal governments we serve. Brian most recently taught mathematics at Keene High School in Keene, N.H., before enrolling in the UVM Master of Public Administration program. His hobbies include home-brewing beer and motorcycling – though not at the same time. He’s been making beer regularly for four years and plans to enter Make the Cut, a statewide brewing competition. If, as Brian claims, he’s camped on almost all of the Great Lakes with his motorcycle, does that mean his bike is tricked out with a flotation device?

Trisha Clark, who joined VLCT in 1999 as a Production Clerk before working her way up to Reception and then to the Claims Department, was recently promoted to Senior Administrative Assistant, Claims. From the very beginning, Trisha has been one of the many smiling faces our members first encounter. Now, she contributes to the smiling, er, glue that helps keep Claims working together.

Jim Carrien was promoted to Loss Control Representative/Administrative Assistant. He’ll continue to provide administrative support for internal staff, the Trusts/Boards and loss control programs. He will also continue to provide loss control service for the members that are assigned to him and handle special loss control assignments that come his way.

Heidi Joyce’s title has changed from Senior Health Promotion Consultant to Senior Loss Control Wellness Consultant to more accurately reflect her evolving role as a Wellness Consultant for PACIF.

Jessica Hill, who has more VLCT employmental designations to her name than there are VLCT employmental designations – a seeming contradiction unless you know Jessi – has made the well-deserved transition to Director of Human Resources and Administration. As Executive Director Steve Jeffrey acknowledged, “we have subjected her to just about every challenging HR issue we could think of, and it appears she has successfully navigated them all. I think you will all agree she has done a phenomenal job for us and, with the new title, we can now expect so much more.”

That’s, let’s see, four well dones and two more welcomes, excellent! Next month, we’ll welcome a new VLCT Board Director or two.

WHY BELONG TO NLC?

The National League of Cities is THE voice for municipalities of all sizes in Washington, DC, as well as THE resource for local leaders and city staff to find solutions to the most pressing challenges in their communities.

Did you know...?

NLC shares a close relationship with the 49 state municipal leagues. It was originally formed by a core group of state leagues to ensure representation in Washington for local governments. NLC still counts all of the 49 state leagues as voting members, and cities are required to belong to their state league prior to joining NLC.

Cities who are members of the National League of Cities enjoy distinct benefits from those afforded by membership in the state municipal leagues, including:

• Representation and advocacy on the federal level,
• A vast pool of geographically diverse members to connect with,
• Its own unique set of solutions and programs designed to save your city and residents time and money, and
• Abundant NLC resources, publications, and technical assistance to help your city navigate the most difficult local government challenges.

See for yourself what it’s all about! Have your city join today and begin the NLC experience! Contact memberservices@nlc.org or (877) 827-2385, or visit www.nlc.org for more information.
