STATE OF VERMONT GENERAL RECORD SCHEDULE

GRS-1000.1002: Accounting Records

Classification: GENERAL (Accounting)

GRS-1000.1002: This schedule is reserved for recorded evidence of activities and transactions that relate to or affect, in a specific manner, the recording, measuring, interpreting, and communicating of financial transactions and date.

Retention: Retain records associated with financial transactions until audit has been completed or closed in accordance with State and Federal laws and regulations.

Registers or systems that serve as the formal repository of an agency's financial accounts and transaction (general ledger) shall be retained until the repository is superseded and then appraised by the Vermont State Archives and Records Administration for continuing value. Supporting documentation, such as invoices, receipts, vouchers, etc., shall be destroyed after audit provided that all legal recordkeeping requirements established by State and Federal law have been met.

A copy of an agency's most recent audit report must be retained at all times and earlier reports shall be retained three years from the date of receipt and then destroyed, unless they have significant administrative value. If administratively significant, retain permanently and follow the retention requirements for Reports in GRS-1000.1102. Accounting reports with significant administrative value shall also be retained permanently in accordance with Reports in GRS-1000.1102.

When There Isn’t a Record Schedule?

- If still legally applicable, Disposition Orders that have not yet been superseded by an agency or general record schedule may continue to be used.

- For functions that are unique to municipalities, disposition orders (if any) are still in effect.

- This is because VSARA only develops record schedules
  1) when requested
  2) cooperation with public agencies.

Procedures

Existing procedures can be updated with citations to record schedules and specific requirements decided by the agency (must match or not go below requirements in a record schedule or disposition order).

OR

A Records Management Guideline attached to a policy can be used to start implementing agency-wide procedures.
RECORDS MANAGEMENT GUIDELINE

Transitory Records (GRS-1000.1000)

Transitory Records are only needed for a limited period of time in order to complete a routine action or prepare or update a formal or on-going record. They are not subject to any specific legal recordkeeping requirements, explicit or implied, and are administratively obsolete after the specific action or process to which they relate is complete. Drafts, notes, reference material, and similar records are examples of transitory records.

If your Division has not established specific retention periods for transitory records, the following types of transitory records can and should be destroyed when no longer needed administratively provided that the records are not subject to any specific legal requirements or a legal retention hold.

- Routine Correspondence: Incoming and outgoing correspondence that is part of a regular routine function and has limited value or need after a routine action is completed.
- Drafts: Preliminary or tentative versions of a document that have no additional value to the drafter or Office. Includes drafts that have been superseded by another document.
- Notes: Notes that have been taken to aid personal memory or for later review. Includes short, informal notes such as phone messages.
- Publications and Reference Sources: Information that is intended primarily for consultation and is for reference or informational purposes only.
- Requests: Requests and responses for forms, publications, records, and other Office information that do not require any administrative review before, or further action after, the information is provided.
- Worksheets: Forms, checklists, and similar worksheets used to prepare or update other records or informally track a workflow.

Include Helpful Hints!

Electronic mail (e-mail) accounts are where many transitory records reside and most, if not all, of the messages created or received by e-mail are public records¹. Examples of transitory e-mail records that can and should be destroyed from your inbox or sent mail folder(s) when no longer needed administratively are: (1) inter-office correspondence and notes concerning routine processes and workflows, including simple requests for information; (2) out-of-office or meeting notifications; and (3) updates and other messages received for informational or reference purposes only.
Records Management Obligations

Record schedules, while essential, only set forth the requirements (administrative, legal and recordkeeping) that need to be met.

The key to meeting records management obligations and complying with state laws is

- having a sound records management program and
- written policies and procedures
Electronic Records Management

- Record Schedules provide metadata:
  - Classification
  - Public Access
  - Retention requirement

- Built directly into systems that manage electronic records

- Guidance is format-neutral

- Comprehensive records management plans address records in ALL records
Road Map: Inventory

• Create a list by storage areas:
  ◦ Start small, tackle piles of records when you have time.
  ◦ Write down what you have

• Include as many sources of electronic information as possible:
  ◦ Computers, hard drives, and disks
  ◦ Servers
  ◦ Cloud storage
  ◦ Contracted software, hardware, or storage

Vermont State Archives & Records Administration
Road Map: Inventory

• Revise the list so all similar topics are together.

• Figure out how you want topics organized:
  ° By year?
  ° By name?

• If possible, physically relocate similar records together.
Road Map: Crosswalk

- Use visual cues to help locate and manage physical records.
- Add retention guidelines from GRS or DO to inventory.
- Use inventory list when disposing of records to track when you recycled or shredded an item/group of records.
