Build a Better Project

Building Teams

Teams take effort. They need:

- A Purpose
- Clear roles
- A sense of belonging
- Communication
- Investment
- Celebrations of success

The Importance of Communications

Communication Matters

- Communication involves listening as well as speaking
- Communication builds public and team trust.
- Let teams know what communication channels to use.

Communication is the most critical thing you can do to build a well-functioning team.

Successful Community Engagement

Think about a time when you felt engaged in a community project.

- Who was in “the room”?
- What made you feel engaged?
- What was happening?

Takeaways

- Your team needs to have different skills sets for different stages of a project's development.
- Building teams takes effort.
- Communications builds teams and transparency.
- Community engagement is about individuals.
